Sheila Cole

I am passionate about working with families during a difficult time of transition, helping the parents generate ideas on how to create a parenting plan that will best serve them and the children. As a mediator, taking time to listen and understand each unique situation is one of my favorite areas of the profession. My desire is to serve each family in such a way that at the conclusion of their mediation they feel informed and well prepared to carry out the newly designed parenting plan that they have been able to create.
