Theresa Loughran

I graduated from Creighton Law School in 1992. I feel that serving as a mediator suites me well because of my extensive involvement in family law over the last many years. I prosecuted child support cases, served as a Guardian ad Litem, defended many delinquency and neglect cases in Douglas County Juvenile Court and practiced law for a private law firm handling divorces, bankruptcies and some criminal law cases. Although not formally termed "mediations", I have used the skill of negotiating/mediating throughout my career.
