

§ 6-1412. Amendments.

Amendments to pleadings may be allowed within the discretion of the court. In no instance shall an amendment to a pleading be made by interlineation or otherwise except by leave of the court. A party who has obtained leave to amend a pleading but fails to do so within the time limit shall be considered as electing to abide by the former pleading.
